Making clients top priority

Dynamic advisory model

BPS (SUISSE) collaborates with clients to implement their projects, contributing expertise and experience.

The BPS (SUISSE) advisory model comprises five phases – which interact dynamically with one another – to offer a meticulous and continuous service, researching the most suitable investment strategy.

- 1. Identifying needs and risk profile
Becoming well-acquainted with the client's personal objectives and needs in order to gain a complete overall picture of their financial situation and personal circumstances. Identifying their needs and expectations are decisive factors when it comes to putting together the personal risk profile.
- 2. Defining the investment strategy
Working with the personal financial advisor to formulate and develop a bespoke strategy based on a client's individual risk profile.
- 3. Analysing and portfolio proposing
Proposing a solution in line with the chosen investor profile. The final decision – about whether to accept, refuse or amend the individual investment proposals – is always in the hands of the client.
- 4. Implementing the strategy
Implementing the agreed strategy with the utmost transparency and in full compliance with the client's individual needs.
- 5. Monitoring and optimising the portfolio on an ongoing basis
Regularly checking the portfolio against the agreed objectives. In the event of deviations, the client will be notified promptly and be provided with a selection of suitable proposals compatible with their risk profile. BPS (SUISSE) advisors are always on hand to provide you with information on developments and portfolio activity.
